MARTIN'S MARKET.

THAT ALARM OF FIRE.

And the Reason for the Alarm for Two Hours After.

For some time past a pleasant rivalry has existed between the hose and the hook and ladder companies as to which could make the greatest speed in reaching a fire after an alarm. The former is supplied with a team of horses, while the members of the hook and ladder company pull the wagon themselves.

Yesterday some friends of the company decided to end the dispute and late in the afternoon an alarm was turned on from the west side drug store. The boys responded nobly. The hook and ladder company were first on the street and had run a block before the hose company put in an appearance. At the foot of the Battery hill the two met and from that on the hose company was an easy winner. Some facts which leaked out later turned the race into a farce. Neither of the organizations were supposed to know that they were to be called out, while as a matter of fact, they both knew it.

The race did not decide the contested point but it did another thing. It proved that the sounding apparatus was decidedly out of order. The alarm which was first turned in struck but three times—indicating the figure three. According to the scheduled program it should have kept on until it pounded out the number 432. But it didn't.

The interest in the race stopped right there, and for two hours Chief Sawyer and a score of assistants racked their brains to discover what was the matter and finally it was found that the machinery that regulates the sounding had slipped a cog. It was righted, and now the system is in good working order. The race between the two companies at least did some good even if it did not decide the disputed question.

A MAGNIFICENT HOTEL.

The Southern Land and Improvement Company the Builders.

In a private letter from the president of the Southern Land and Improvement Company, which was received in the city yesterday, it was authoritatively stated that with the opening of spring the company would begin the improvement of their land near Asheville. It is situated near the new brick home of Captain Locke and comprises twenty-seven acres.

The letter states that the company have decided to build a magnificent hotel on the land, and that it will have 600 rooms. It is to be of the most modern design. The particulars further than these are meagre. But one thing more is given. That states that the entire property will be surrounded with a stone fence six feet high, and that at a distance of every thirty feet electric lights will be hung over it. The effect may be imagined. An electric expert will arrive in the city in a few days and will examine the situation. If possible they will run their own electric plant.

The gentleman from whom the above statement was elicited is thoroughly reliable and says that he knows personally what the letter means what it says.

Several people who are financially interested in the scheme were seen yesterday, but they are at the Battery.

LOCAL OFFICE DISCONTINUED.

Mr. Day, the Manager, will go to Mobile, Alabama.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 1, 1890.

With the discontinuing of the office at this place Mr. Day will go to Mobile, Alabama, to look after the interests of the E. T. V. and Ga., at that place. During his stay in Asheville this gentleman has made many friends who will sincerely regret his loss. He has performed his duty faithfully, and by his courtesy and uniform kindness has furthered the interests of his company greatly at this place.

A Matrimonial Epidemic.

N. L. Burnett, the renowned bear hunter and guide of Black Mountain was in the city yesterday. Mr. Burnett is authority for the statement that the epidemic of the grip in his locality has been succeeded by one quite as far reaching, although he hopes not so fatal. It is a matrimonial epidemic and within the past month Black Mountain has contributed twelve victims.

The Children's Home.

The Children's Home gratefully acknowledges gifts of household articles from Mrs. Randolph, Mrs. Maddox, Mrs. Steele, Mrs. Rich, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Boyd, Mr. Erwin Love. Also four bears from Mr. Robert Johnston's children.

Taulbee's Condition Critical.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Ex-representative Taulbee, who was shot in the capitol yesterday by Charles E. Kinnard, correspondent of the Louisville Times, is still lying at the Providence hospital. Inquiry there this morning was met with the statement that the wounded man had passed the night as comfortably as could be expected, and that he was then resting easily. His condition is regarded as serious, and a consultation over the case by the hospital physicians will be held this afternoon. Taulbee's son for whom telegraphic summons was sent yesterday is expected to reach Washington this afternoon.

GOSSIP OF A DAY.

People who woke up Saturday morning and shiveringly ascertained that March had brought a good old New England cold wave into the South were very much disgusted. There was much railing to stand over hot registers and in front of blazing fireplaces and stoves, and plans for firing and driving were knocked endwise. But those hardy souls who ventured out were agreeably disappointed, for the air, though decidedly colder than it has been of late, lacked the damp, penetrating chill that is usually associated with the March winds of the North, and was really refreshing and invigorating after it had been faced for a moment or two. Asheville air isn't bad to take even in March gales.

Asheville is full of strangers, and the hotels and boarding houses ought to be doing a hugely profitable business. At the best known places for public accommodation applicants for desirable places are turned away daily. Frequently those who call to look for lodgings are very careful to state that they must have large rooms, not higher than the second floor, with open fireplaces, a southern exposure, etc. After they have recited this bill of particulars they are usually informed that there isn't an unoccupied lodging apartment in the house large enough or sufficiently desirable for a pet dog to sleep in; and the further they progress on their hunting trip the less exacting they become.

People who read in a New York paper on Friday a story of young Abraham Lincoln's death in London were astonished to learn on Saturday that the son of the minister to England was still alive and apparently improving. Probably the explanation of this disagreement is to be found in the over-anxiety of some London correspondent to get a "beat" on his contemporaries by cabling a story of the boy's death, while the lad, whose vitality is said to have been wonderful, was still breathing but whose death was thought to be merely a question of a few hours. It is always dangerous to send such reports in the expectation that the death will have occurred by the time the report is printed, but some correspondents repeatedly take that risk of misleading their readers.

New York brokers have become religious, and Trinity church, standing at the head of Wall street, is so filled with the buyers and sellers of stocks during the noon-hour Lenten services that no women are admitted, as the would occupy space that is needed for the business men who are taking their religion in alphabetical doses, and that daily. Rev. Phillips Brooks, the gigantic, the evangelist who has come out of Boston to do this miracle. He makes no sensational attacks like Joseph Cook; he executes no acrobatic feats like Talmage; he simply talks orthodox to these brokers, and they quit their posts at the busiest hour of the day to hear the big preacher's commanding eloquence. Probably there won't be a knockdown fight in the Exchange for a week.

DEATH OF MRS. REYNOLDS.

A Most Estimable Christian Lady Gone to Her Reward.

Mrs. N. A. Reynolds, a most excellent Christian lady, died at her home on Woodfin street Saturday morning at half past one o'clock. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCrary and the wife of our city tax collector, Mr. N. A. Reynolds.

Mrs. Reynolds was born in Carroll county, Indiana, October 3, 1819. Some four years ago her health began to fail and she was brought to this city to get the benefit of our pure air. She remained about one year and returned home very much improved. While here she met Mr. Reynolds and they were married August 27, 1887. She returned with her husband immediately to Asheville. The improvement in her health turned out to be only temporary. That careful disease, consumption, had fastened itself permanently in her system and her decline was marked and uniform. Everything that a fond husband, loving parents and kind friends could do was done for her, but death had set his seal upon her, and after months of suffering she quietly fell asleep March 1, 1890.

She had been a consistent member of the Christian church from her early girlhood and her death was one of peaceful triumph. Beautiful in person, cheerful in disposition and bright in mind, she was fondly loved by all who knew her. Her faith, patience and submission during her last illness were beautiful to witness, and her departure was not like death. It was like the going down of a cloudless sun whose brilliant dawn is promised with the coming morning. Peace be to her unbroken repose!

HARRISON OVERPAID LONG AGO.

A bill has been introduced in the house at Washington to appropriate $25,000 for a monument over the remains of General William Henry Harrison, grandfather of the President at North Bend, Ohio. This proposition is doubtless made in the belief that the nation is a debtor in its running account with the Harrisons. There is no foundation for such a belief. The audit will show that the country has done a hundred-fold more for the Harrisons than they have ever done for the country.

Lincoln's Condition Still Serious.

LOXON, March 1.—Master Abraham Lincoln passed a quiet night, but there is no material change in his condition. Up to 4 p. m., there has been no change in the condition of the patient. Despite his weakness a hope of recovery is still maintained.
